

May is Asian Pacific American Heritage Month

Asians in America: Our Past, Present, and Future

Date: May 17, 2018

11am- 12 noon

DSRC Multi-Purpose Room
GC402

Presentation Description:

Explore the different histories of Asians in the United States, confront the model minority myth, examine current issues facing Asian communities, and look towards where the dynamic community is heading.

About the Speaker:

Justin Valas is a third generation Japanese American, born in Denver but raised in the mountains. He graduated from Knox College in Illinois and has been a community organizer since 2009 organizing around economic justice, health equity, immigrant rights, and racial justice. Justin is also an Asian American history buff, comic book geek, hip hop head, and policy wonk.
